

Junta de Beneficencia de Guayaquil is a regular active member of WANGO (World Association of Non-Governmental Organizations,) which has over 4000 member NGOs, from over 120 countries. WANGO provides NGOs with the mechanisms and support they need to network, partner and join efforts to help solve some of the world's most basic problems.

Thanks to our WANGO membership, Junta de Beneficencia de Guayaquil is now an example of Ecuadorian solidarity to the international community, and is connected to a wide range of organizations worldwide. This enables us to find better, more efficient ways to serve our people.

WANGO is an extensive network of international organizations directly associated with major charitable organizations, universities and the United Nations. Its headquarters are located in Tarrytown, New York.
